What the ANL stands for:

The ANTI NAZI LEAGUE exists to oppose racism and fascism. We recognise that they breed on the insecurity that comes from fear of unemployment and the sense of frustration and powerlessness that many people feel in their lives.

The ANL argues not only for solidarity between groups that can be exposed to intolerance, but believes a strong organisation depends on ordinary people from all parts of society. Black and white unite and fight.

What you can do

■ Show you are against racism and fascism

Wear a badge or a sticker and get your friends and workmates to wear one too.

■ Petitions

Take some petitions against racism and get people you know to sign them. Bring them around your estate, school, college or workplace. You could also set up a stall and get other people to help out.

■ Trade Unions

Get your trade union branch to pass a motion condemning racism.

■ Join the ANL

To join the ANL all you need to be is opposed to racism and in favour of a tolerant democratic society.
